The Tarkana Party holds a plurality (over one-third) in the Senate, and is very authoritarian and militaristic. But there are a couple of other major parties that advocate for social reform, less militarization, and green energy.

They aren't a nation, per se, but a research organisation dedicated to researching lunar life; yeah, the Moon has lifeforms here. The life, however, is vastly different to what we think of as life. Animals breathe ammonia and exhale cyanide, both of which would kill most animals on Earth. Some of them are unipedal (wait, how does that work??), others take advantage of reduced gravity and "float", and so on. I'm surprised people actually tried eating this "blimpfish" and didn't die, but apparently it tasted... bad.

In their timeline, France has a pretty pathetic military history, especially compared to OTL military history of France in 1600-1900, where it loses most of the wars it gets in (most of which, OTL, resulted in the French at least being on the Victors' Side). One example of this matter is the fact that it lost to Austria in the War of Italian Independence (which, [i]which one? There were three).

Their planetary unification has roots in the Global Assembly, their equivalent of the UN, following an atomic war which nearly destroyed their world. Unfortunately, the GA failed in its mission, resulting in another nuclear war known as the Silda Unification War. Out from the ashes came the Utaris Clique, who managed to unite the world through a guild system, eventually transforming their entire planet into a huge city - an ecumenopolis.

(On a sidenote, it's really cool that you thought to use Stellaris as a framework for your nation. I haven't seen many nations do that before.)

While Shtetan economy might be considered stagnant or even declining, it was attributed to the idea of a steady-state economy proposed by Eco-Bundists. Basically deliberate enoughism on national scale.

Naturelegism is not to be confused with scientology (given what I know of scientology, I'm somewhat surprised that such a note would be remotely necessary. Ain't nothing scientific about scientology)...

Anyway, it strikes me as simple naturalism taken to a more formal degree.

The people of Godular vary wildly when it comes to music tastes, albeit a significant portion of it is attracted to music that has heavy use of heavy percussion. Because of this, (presumably) the most popular music genres in Godular are heavy metal and epic rock.

Apparently, they once had a colony in Tunisia.

We do not use NS Stats, policies, or otherwise. Please only judge us by what is in our factbooks.

An alternate history version of China in which the alliance between the Kuomintang and the Communist Party never broke down, eventually resulting in a federalized, democratic China. Though one of the world's strongest economies and an emerging superpower, China continues to suffer from high rates of income inequality, an overreaching and sometimes corrupt government, and cultural issues that continue to persist despite the efforts of many reformers over the decades. Most factbooks are still an active WIP.
