It seems that crime in Caleshan Valkyrie is less widespread, but it's more violent.

When the film Avengers: Endgame premiered, the waisnorian government placed a huge screen on Parliament Square, allowing around 1,500 people to watch for free. People even brought binoculars to be able to watch the film from a distance, after climbing trees and fences.

The Cosmic Church (which has a Turkish-like name) is not only a church, but is also a nation where many city-states who practice the same faith conglomerate to become a nation. Apparently, they are a nihilist society, and despite their faith, or perhaps because of it, the Cosmic Church is dependant on foreign trade.

Outside of the existence of Nacrad itself, their world's geopolitical situation is divergent from our own but similar in a number of ways. The Soviet Union and the Warsaw Pact still exist and Europe remains divided into East and West, Afghanistan is divided between different ideologically motivated warlord factions, Iran still had its Islamic revolution, Iraq still got George Bush'd, and Syria is still on fire. Ironically South America might be the place that has seen the most change out of all of the continents, with a massive unholy blob of a pro-American dictatorship being propped up by the US made up of Colombia,

Venezuela, Peru, Ecuador, the Guianas and the Amazon, and Argentina and Chile remaining as full-on fascist dictatorships rather than just military juntas.

The Germanian Empire ✚ "Das Reich uber Alles!"

Factbooks | Music | Tech Level: PT/FanT | Current Year: 1940 AE

An ancient empire in the heart of Europa, born and forged in the fires of war, headed by an embittered Kaiserin and her ambitious generals. Surrounded on all sides by invaders and saboteurs, and having emerged victorious but scarred from a war to end all wars, the Fatherland stands on guard.

Set to go through a major rework. Timeskip, new factbooks, and map update included.

The current state of world affairs in Tellus has led to the formation of an "Atlantic Concordat" which in the context of the setting appears to be an alternative to NATO, featuring Atlantia, Albion, and her commonwealth dominions in the ANGLOSPHERE. Notably, it's much more Anglo-centric, likely as a result of the Germanians emerging as a significant power bloc in Eastern Europe, and thus it's likely to act much more as a defense treaty between nations bound together by their common heritages than by the big bad reds- especially since said reds don't exist in the form they did otl.

Note that some of this is reading between the lines based on the map of spheres of influence and of the flavor text for other nations in the world affairs factbook.

The hub factbook actively states that the user "will not enjoy their stay." - it is set in the year 2995 and has given up the necessity of tracking time for the most part, all but the year. On top of that they abandoned earth and went into space. I also love the site's use of contradictions such as "THE CONFEDERACY IS DEAD. LONG LIVE THE CONFEDERACY."

OOC Note - very neatly laid out and I am extremely impressed with it.

They have existed since the first day that people started making aesthetically pleasing hoots. From the first attempt at banging differently-sized femurs on rocks, through the stretching of animal skin over a wooden hoop and slapping it repeatedly while people dance like morons around a fire, to the tiptapping of keys on a keyboard as somebody attempts to accomplish the perfect 'bass drop', they have existed.

They appear to be VERY isolationist even if they are not officially, because they are obviously so averse to outsiders that there is nobody not of that ethnic group and not of that religion.

I learnt that the land occupied by the Allied Tribe was inhabited (continually?) since 12,000 BC, and has had some form of unity between the tribes since 3000 BC. Furthermore, I learnt that they have been attacked by the ZSeperatists, who were warded off with the aid from Sharifistan among others.

Nacrad became independent after rebellion against British rule in 1899 and was given Amoy island (which I suppose is Taiwan here) in 1903.

In their continuity, apparently the Polish became the leader of the Soviet Bloc by ker-booting the Civil-War-Ravaged Russians. I also guess that Russia didn't produce as many nukes, as 95 seems to be a number Poland is proud of.

The Global Defence Initiative has slowly been expanding its influence beyond the purely material role that the UN had created it for. By virtue of playing a pivotal role in the defence of the "free world" against the Brotherhood, and because the nations of the UN need to have a high degree of coordination in military and political endeavours, the GDI has been allowed free rein in dealing with subversive organizations and states, taking a totalitarian turn.

The Waisnor Constitution states that the country must be divided into equally-populated constituencies (currently a little less than 29,000 per constituency). This feels like it would make it quite difficult to actually provide the divide, given that a single city would end up being broken up into a number of constituencies (and which means that rural constituencies would end up being geographically massive in comparison and also have significantly less weight in the unicameral parliament, given how many more votes a single city of, say, 290,000 would have). It also doesn't seem to state whether or not the President, as Head of State, or Prime Minister, as Head of Government, dissolve the Government and Congress and call for early elections.

This country became a republic in 1951.

Also, a genocide was carried against Tlingit people in early 1980's.
