(Sorry for double posting, but I felt bad for Ink for some reason)

The Inkster: Although their native language of Inklsh's structure would imply some similarities to the fictional Lovecraftian language of R'LYEHIAN, their mother-tongue appears to be the ancient language called "Oredekan". This Oredekan language later branched off to both the Octoling and the Inklings language, who I can imagine have a similar relationship to the Spanish and Italians. Also, I literally cannot pronounce it. No matter how hard I try, I cannot pronounce "gfb".

Kaed: They appear to be developing a spheroid tank, which I doubt could work outside of science-fiction. Surprisingly though, the author makes it seem like it could exist in reality with him writing down speed, velocity, and other physics-related stuff. This includes a short video using the KSP game, which is something I'd thought I would never see outside of the Arts and Fiction forums.

tl;dr: Round ball of doom, the author is super good at making it seem like it could physically work.

Rapture City

- In the underwater city, two roles have emerged from the City's ongoing civil war: the City Monitors who defend the peace and the Red Caps who fight against unjust systems. The city's infrastructure is crumbling under its own weight and kinship is snuffed by the paranoia of totalitarianism. Yet the people would be in for a surprise as their virtual overlord have died many years ago as the oppression continues under his name...

- Not an 1-1 exact replica of Bioshock lore and Rapture City. Only the city's atmosphere and setting is maintained.

Very cool observation that totally isn't obvious when you look at the homepage of my nation for 2 seconds. Also, Splatoon doesn't have a language, it's all gibberish in the game and in the canon lore. My language is headcanon/fanon, like, idk, 95% of the rest of the things in my nation.

New Transeurasia's history diverges from that of Russia/the Soviet Union in 1918. The Soviet Union collapses into three states just a few years after its establishment, the communist Soviet Republic, the fascist Russian State, and the democratic New Transeurasia, all fighting another Russian civil war. With German intervention, the Russian State comes to control the former territory of the Soviet Union, and the government of New Transeurasia has to go into exile in London. They then make a comeback, retaking Moscow, building up their military, and instituting economic reforms. During WWII, they battle Nazi Germany and take over Eastern Europe. From the 1960s to the 2030s, they take over Mongolia, the northern parts of China, Pakistan, and Alaska. They also somehow manage to grow to over 4 billion people.

Since the 1990s, the economy has been driven by information technologies like e-commerce and an almost fully-automated bureaucracy.
