A socialist, a leader, and as strong-willed as they come. I must say there is a lot of promise. Admittedly, his consolidation of power is at best questionable, but he appears to have been incredibly effective. He also fits my reformist agenda. I hope to meet him at some point.

General-Secretary Synox72

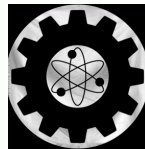

This is what some would call a "common monarchist L". The self-proclaimed Kaiser is responsible for a military dictatorship, drove Germany into a deluded imperialist project, and only won in Europe by sheer fluke. His entire system of government relies on rash choices, and it's a miracle that he has not yet been replaced. Regardless, his rule does have certain positives, being a breeding ground for the revolutionary ember to burn. One day, he will fall, and socialism will win.

“Laura Ortiz is a very admirable young lady who has ruled with distinction and honour despite taking the Presidency at such a young age.

"While aspects of her rule have been marked by mistakes, these are not entirely surprising when one considers her youth. I'm also on a personal level very concerned about her alcoholism. I enjoy a drink as much as anyone but her consumption seems to be excessive and I hope that she begins making healthier choices soon. Again, this is to expected from someone so young.

"Generally speaking however under her leadership

Gonswanza has become a very well-respected nation with whom we have a very cordial relationship and so I wish her good health, prosperity and success and if she ever needs advice or a mentor then I would be willing to make myself available to her."

The efforts he made in order to gain his position right now, and his will to ensure the welfare of the citizens, those are truly impressive. I also need to point out that, while in some aspects we shows striking differences, our goal is very similar, both of us are trying to use our beliefs and powers for the benefits of our citizens, especially those suffers from poverty.

Overall, I will say that Mr. Olson is an impressive and respectful leader, and I believe that, under his leadership, his states will surely thrive."

General-Secretary Synox72

Laura Ortiz is an inept bourgeoisie despot masquerading beneath an air of mystique and elaborate mannerisms. Her use of "Bear" for Russia, "Eagle" for the USA, and "Spider" for her own nation is a perfect example of this. She is a jingoistic leader, and certainly anti-imperialist, yet focuses more on pointless power-moves instead of tackling the true foes. I mean, building a tunnel is great, but building a new capital under the water, accessible only through "waterbus"? These moves are not practical, they are simple displays of "power", that are ultimately useless. She should build a strong military base, rather than proxy wars in strategically unnecessary areas. If i can say a good thing, it is her dedication to opposing America, and it's capital, even if she herself is somewhat of a capitalist. Better more capitalists bickering than not, I suppose.

Head of the CIS Pyoyter Nakiovich

By all possible measurements, the General Secretary has achieved one of the greatest possible forms of revolutionary success, even if unfortunately committed under the wrong ideology.

The fields are watered with the blood of counter-revolutionaries, as it should be, and although the state itself has failed in some manners to properly orient economic matters to a degree, the continued existence of the revolutionary state has proven the worth of some of their more..... revisionist, so to say, ideological ideals.

In truth, my greatest critique is that they have continued to allow for passive counter-Revolution amongst the population, and failed to sufficiently create a national, truly revolutionary identity. Of course, this to some degree can be solved by simple reutilization of currently held cities for a proper installation of revolutionary spirit into the aforementioned groups.

In summation, I wish the General Secretary the best of luck in their fight against counter-revolutionary elements within the nation.

""Beast in Human Skin" is a badass nickname, unless he made it up for himself, in that case, it's lame. Being an early devotee to a fascist is rather worrying, as is supporting an invasion of North Korea, those folks have it bad enough already with the constant threats from the United States. He clearly is good at his job though, the most efficient, I'm reading. Good for him, I wish it was easier to find people like that. Head of the intelligence services seems like a fun job, sometimes I wish I micromanage that stuff more than I do currently but I hardly have time for that.
