OFFICE OF THE PREMIER

Regarding Kaiser William of Metcalfe

A superb General among a legion of more talents, I must say. 3 weeks to the descendants of the Mongolian Empire is no easy feat, though I haven't see much of warfare to know. Monsieur William Metcalfe is a far away leader from those I know, but close in religious ties. The Anglican Church is no laughing matter, and neither is Metcalfe.

I look forward to hearing more news about Metcalferian accomplishments in their section of the world, but for the sake of brevity let us keep the distance between our homelands mutual.

~ Premier of New Québec, Reverend Cédric Lésage.

BN: If the Premier is overdone, I literally have a catalogue of other leaders to choose from within the same factbook.

I admire the devotion and zealotry he puts into his religion and the importance of the soul he portrays. Sometimes it's great to sit back and watch him transform his country, as well as be inspired by the utter insanity that is Cédric Lésage. I strongly encourage any and all people of any age to check out his rise to power, and learn its aftereffects, whether for good or ill.

It has come to my decision and that of the Broad after sending a expedition team to your country, Marquisal. And it seems, the team has concluded, your kingdom will make our pockets heavy. So, your saltiness, WonderTech will be enacting our usual procedures to see your country under our boot. "This William fellow... seems something of a kindred spirit at times but I must confess I do not understand why he experienced such difficulties in his early life. The concept of a 'bastard' is wholly foreign to us, and signs of autism or any other kind of neurological difficulty brings half the planet down on the child in the hopes of identifying the next Avatar. That such things would be cause for derision and torment strikes me as a crippling societal flaw.

"This reminds me of why our crusade is righteous. It is not the intent to give people access to true strength or true enlightenment. It is to ensure that such suffering and stigma be eliminated in the future. Some stories... some stories should not have to be told.

"Also, I too am most disconcerted by centipedes. So many legs. How do they keep them from getting tangled up? Madness!" -Achaedus

"To pardon the errors of a person is a grave mistake, the most common mistake, to make. Indeed, Achaedus has been pardoned, or, so often, overlooked, for his past offences especially in one of those military campaigns he had been involved: the act of sorricide. Justifications aside, he would have allowed himself to be killed by his sister, the act itself would been a blessing since his desire for death is so much powerful than his resolve to live, his personal strengths, and to be effectively literate. Taking everything into account, Achaedus is a rather disappointing figure; even his policies cannot overshadow his woeful past and his own misdemeanours. The rest can see and say Achaedus is a good man, all I am doing is merely balancing this man's image and expressing what has not been made obvious to all."

How come we refer to a flock of geese as a flock of geese but not call a herd of moose a herd of meese?

"Lady Zurie is a brightly shining leader that has done what only the fewest of the strongest have done, what we have done; risen from the ashes. Because of this, we stand with her. We hope that Lady Zurie carries on in her brave and righteous wars against that which threatens her newly risen land and the folk with it."

Rapture City

- In the underwater city, two roles have emerged from the City's ongoing civil war: the City Monitors who defend the peace and the Red Caps who fight against unjust systems. The city's infrastructure is crumbling under its own weight and kinship is snuffed by the paranoia of totalitarianism. Yet the people would be in for a surprise as their virtual overlord have died many years ago as the oppression continues under his name...
- Not an 1-1 exact replica of Bioshock lore and Rapture City. Only the city's atmosphere and setting is maintained.
