Assault?

If it's one of our own, it'll be answered by use of deadly force. We are unafraid to use deadly weapons to protect ourselves, and we look out for own. So assaulting one of our own could very well lead to five of our own drawing their magic knives and stabbing the poor bastard to death right after the assault.

If it's not one of our own, we probably don't care unless it interferes with our business or draws too much heat. We care for our own and for our interests - we only care about other people if it makes us money.
