Regarding Ori d-Karim:
That is one long title. I get that all the little territories in empires like being paid lip service to in the Imperial title that nobody will ever say in full, but "Holder of the Sun"? "Holder of the Moon"? "The Fresh Sul"... Now wait just a moment.

Something doesn't seem right about that bit, almost like it came out of some comedy show whose name escapes me. Ah well. There isn't very much information available on him, but I guess what little there is regarding his political stances seems... alright, I think. His use of swords strikes me (haha get it?) as strange, but I'm sure he has a decent reason for it, and I'm glad to see he isn't some kind of ultra-reactionary theocrat who thinks technology is an affront to divinity. I can't comment much more beyond that, though.

Regarding the Paramount: Chasing progress and efficiency is admirable, but even I have limits. This Paramount's crusade to "assimilate" all life almost makes me sympathise with the luddites.

Almost.
This reads
like their
propaganda
about me -
a machine
that goes so
far in its
quest to expand the nation's
power that
the actual
nation is
scrapped
and all
that's left
is thoughtless
power
expansion.
Why, even?
Does it only
exist to
turn people
into robots?
It doesn't seem to be working
very well in
any case.
30% of the population
in open
revolt,
heavens
above, that's bad. I
know I have those Ancestral
Front opes
to deal
with, but
this gives
me
reassurance
that at the very least, I
don't have nearly a
third of my
trying to kill me.
More like a
tenth, at
the very worst. I
guess
instability
is bound to
happen
when you
cram so
many great
minds into a single metal shell
- whoever

thought
that was a
good idea,
let alone
expected it
to stick to
its purpose
of teaching
history,
deserves to
be
humiliated
to the point
of suicide.

"Shioris is the very kind of person I fear becoming during the Risorgimento. I always feared becoming a tyrant over the America people, and Shioris's shows what I would've been like if I didn't put my trust into the American people to run their own affairs. His ideals of technological progress and nationhood are lofty, but he seems to believe that a society regimented like a barracks is somehow the only way to lift people from savagery. Reality is that Shioris is making the average citizen reliant on his regime. If Shioris's regime falls, then how would the people of Veskrone survive?

That and I despise tyranny. Though, I guess the reason I don't despise him is because futurists are a huge thing in the RCAS and I share my sympathies with it. That and his attitude towards the supernatural is admirable, seeking to expand humanity's influence and power.

Honestly, I believe my ideals are a synthesis to Telfern's thesis and Shioris's antithesis, to use Sallows butchered version of Hegelian dialectics. It would be interesting to visit Veskrone and negotiate something between the two opposing factions, but I guess the bad blood from years of conflict would make that difficult."

"O! Casey once mentioned, that if I had his body, I would thrown myself from a rock. No. If I was of his sizes, I would have used far different fightin' style. The art of stealth. Being that short, one can easily disappear from the line of sight of most foes even in plain sight and easily get behind, or in a firefight, be a hard target... small and fast movin', it's almost impossible to hit with a bullet. Besdies, people of small frame can hide behind smaller objects and get into crevices, inaccessible to others. Small weight makes it easier to sneak and land silently. Low strength? For a sneaky fighter that's ain't a problem. If I was him, I'd use a stiletto or in case of a fight with bullies an umbrella, painful and non-lethal. If ya' poke certain points with finesse, it can cause hellish and overwhelming pain. A pain, that can demoralize and confuse... Trust me, I know, what the hell I am talkin' about.

I think, that if he couldn't be a leader, deeply inside, he'd make a great assassin or spy. As his leader abilities... sure, they are nice, but I still can't understand the logical chain, that made him think, that it's non-whites, who caused the Nuclear Holocaust. I really cannot comprehend the racism dudes! To me it's pointless..."-Shawn Bjornson

"Another example of an Organic 'Warlord' whose expertise in playing situations to it's advantage is so spectacular that even I wish it luck in it's future. From advanced beginnings, to earning great winnings, the Organic has displayed a degree of prowess- Educated by some from the relative world 'Hyper-Power', and latching onto those ideals like a mandible biting into it's target. A career in special operators revealed a many things about the subject- Aiding a fight in ideals it had been raised in. A brutal wound which might take others permanently out of action simply helped to set the stage- And its actions at these stages were the simple window-dressing to ensure an even more rapid rise. A sniper, after-all, works for both sides if aimed properly. Quick reforms, and an even quicker hand of action helped to ensure a rise- And sympathy when needed as-well. Politics played quite well, even The Horde must admit.... But now, we do come to the current end- There are a great many things I can see ahead of this Organic... Which I find myself in favor of."

You know me and you know I absolutely despise imperialistic tendencies. Do you ever stop and think that the universe needs less violence? I'm sure you'll say that you're doing this for the good of all the sentient races of the universe but doesn't every civilization claim to have good intentions?

Then again, I am rather glad that you despise royalty as much as I do and the fact that you've been able to keep them in check makes me heart rest easy. Remember, you're a good man. However, you just need to stop and think sometimes about what you're doing. You don't need to resort to an iron fist just to ram through any problem. I know you're better than that.

As for you my dear Strein, I don't think we've had the pleasure of meeting one another. You can call me Ambrosia. I'm sure Zenny's told you all about me.

From what I've read, you must be one tough cookie! What I truly admire about your being is your allegiance to the concept of Order. In fact, proclaiming and proving your allegiance to such a concept in my home-world would win you many valuable allies, me being one of them already.

If I'm being honest, you do seem to be more level headed than the imperial consul himself. You are certainly capable of tempering Zen's militaristic nature."

Skyhooked is MT/PMT with a few FT elements. Military is factbook only. NS stats are mostly non canon.

It has come to my utmost attention by my advisors that it will be more economically beneficial to work towards improving the state of relations with the Skyhooked Government and to my own realization. It would serve my goals better, if Aquarians and Skyhookedians came to a cultural understanding and coexistence with limited prejudices towards one another. I stretch my hand out to Bjomson so we may begin implementing measures to see a pragmatic state of prosperity and enlightenment between our countries. I will even open myself from my comforts and get to know Mr. Bjarnson as a person and not some barbarian. However, this move is not out of weakness or any other rubbish. It is for benefitting my government and my countrymen's best interest to create if possible highly positive ties with the nation of Skyhooked and it's ruling administration. Otherwise, if anything is to happen to undermine the Aquarian Fatherland. Let it be known, the Leviathan shall strike without a second thought. Overall my assessment is neutral.

Rapture City

- In the underwater city, two roles have emerged from the City's ongoing civil war: the City Monitors who defend the peace and the Red Caps who fight against unjust systems. The city's infrastructure is crumbling under its own weight and kinship is snuffed by the paranoia of totalitarianism. Yet the people would be in for a surprise as their virtual overlord have died many years ago as the oppression continues under his name...
- Not an 1-1 exact replica of Bioshock lore and Rapture City. Only the city's atmosphere and setting is maintained.
