Sleepytime Gorilla Museum-Cochroach

O loathsome crawling thing
Be done with your minuscule affairs
O hungry creeping speck
I release you from your cares

Be gone Roach!
You live on carrion
That's outrageous
You're probably contagious
Blind crippled and half-squashed and yet you carry on

Your persistence is disgusting
I could never find myself trusting
A creature that would rather live in the trash than in the lawn
Cockroach your problems are not mine
I love life but with you I draw the line
Not to flaunt my superior design
But next to you I'm practically divine

Cockroach your problems are not mine

Sleepytime Gorilla Museum is also metal.

But I'm already in a region that I'm happy with, even though it's rather quiet right now.

U2 has other overproduced albums like Achtung Baby, but it's moderated and this new album sounds like mainstream music a bit, at least a few songs do.

I guess I just don't entirely know what "overproduced" is in a musical sense. Though if it means commercialized, I can see that more. But Porcupine Tree was classified as overproduced and I didn't exactly see the downside of that with that band.

I've always related it to the music/album/band etc. being stripped of the rawness (live play) and being over-studio-ed if you will Like Kill 'Em All (Metallica) is a very raw underproduced album

Then Load (of shit lol) (Metallica) is overproduced.

That makes sense to me. I guess Porcupine Tree is pretty stripped of the live rawness on album recordings.

But either way, I'm not one of those people who have this huge love for live performances, anyway, despite the fact I want to go and see lots of live shows in my lifetime. I'd rather actually be there and see it than specifically listening to some live performance on my computer, so I guess it being overproduced still doesn't really bother me all that much.
