I mean assuming there's anyone left to charge, probably execution by radiation poisoning.

Planting a dirty bomb in the nation's capital and detonating it during a speech of the leader, irradiating the crowd and leader, causing horrific damages for years to come?

Praise our glorious leader Laura Ortiz!

If you turn it into the police and they give it back after a week with no owner retrieving it, no penalty, otherwise a 100 fine and up to a year in prison

Access to the Internet has been authorized for government purposes only. If someone uses that to distribute unauthorized files, it would be considered sabotage at the very least. Lifelong forced labor.

Embezzlement of state funds in the millions.

The Act of stealing is punished with a sentence up to 4 years, but the court may at its discretion annul any kind of punishment if the act is considered to be done for a reasonable end without having important repercussions on the victim of the robbery.

Some of the judges may be a slightly more sympathetic towards your case, but probably not enough to not hand you down as prison sentence of up to 25 years, though maybe with a small chance of getting a little leniency.
