"A Marxist Sovereign? That is certainly unexpected to see but I suppose it's possible as it's evident that this "Empress" holds virtually no power over the ongoing of her country, and serves only as a meaningless figurehead. Despite much people would like to say it's no preserve history. You can preserve the history of your former monarchy without needing a bunch of people to reside in the old places of past Kings and Queens and LARP as them if they had any true impact on wider society. Nevertheless, this matters not, besides being observed as a revolution without the massacre. Now looking at her masters' policies I don't see much to disagree with, the exception being entrusting the faith of your country with the peasantry. I mean no offense by that but I have exactly seen a country prove my view that the common citizenry should have the right to rule. Maybe you'll prove me as looking over your master's policies they aren't that bad, at all. But they could be better if a more qualified person was appointed to the position without hoping for the best with popularity contest every four years. Overall my stance is neutral."

If he tried to beat me down, I could snap his arm in half like a used cigarette. Hell, given that long list of male partners he has, he might as well be a real woman, not like he's using his birthright. Look at that uniform. Yeah, I see you have nothing to be ashamed of underneath there. I respect that, friend. Well, I guess you're ashamed of your arms. Why else would you wear expensive armor everywhere else except the parts that actually matter? You're really scary until someone gets the bright idea to stab you in the stomach, rendering you permanently disabled or dead. And why is your hair pink? What, are you an emperor or a European college-student who cries over how there aren't fat black trans women in movies? He looks silly, and his ideology isn't much better."

Oh yes, I have spent over a paragraph talking about his dumbass haircut and I haven't even touched on his ideology yet. Fuck is half of this bullcrap anyways? 'Democratization of Fear', 'Restricted Immigration' while being a colonialist, hell - he's an Emperor, and yet he believes he can run the whole show by himself. Oh wait, he doesn't run the full show by himself. Nooo, he leaves it to the control of two walking carpets who've probably screwed him more times than he's screwed over his nation. Seriously, I will admit that I have met a lot of people in my life, but I don't make them rulers over entire sections of administration. That's just bad for business 101. What if it turns out they're corrupt jackasses - Oh wait! I forgot, one of them is. Your favorite walking dildo is a corrupt banker who loves capitalism to serve himself. Great system you got there. I see no reason why this isn't totally hypocritical and would collapse under any sort of real pressure.

This woman of a man is either a willing doormat to the rugpeople, which makes him an absolute cuckold of a man, or he is so willingly incompetent he fails to realize that his system is corrupt to the core, and not even the fun kind of corrupt. And frankly, I don't think he has those child-bearing hips for no reason. Maybe he needs the furballs to make children or something."

Nevertheless, the Hegemon is admirable and has progressed greatly despite what fate had to throw at him. However, I am quite concerned about his desire to overthrow the Gods that created the multiverse and gave us the trials and tools we needed to overcome them. I do not think his goal will end well for him. It will undoubtedly end in his erasure from the material plane and I would wish him to reconsider revoking the wrath of the Gods before it's too late. still have a distaste for monarchs in general. But this one really doesn't seem like a good person compared to most monarchs I encounter and am forced to deal with through diplomatic obligations. They've abused their position to make a totalitarian system along the lines of the People's Republic of China and has even taken their 'social credit' system. I don't think they're at all concerned with what's best for their people. I think their only concern is total control of their population and total destruction of those deemed 'inferior.' If I were still a psychologist and not a president, I would be testing Emperor Von Stein for several different personality disorders, and possibly post-traumatic stress as well due to the unnecessarily harsh military training he was forced to undergo.

If she were a true Marxist she would be working to abolish her own position as a monarch. Despite ideological disagreements and confusion over the combination of Marxism and monarchy, I do find her to be respectable as a leader. "Koyoke is certainly the exception when regarding Immortals. I never imagined one deciding to voluntarily give up his blessed power so that other mortals may have the chance at ruling the highest office of the land as Prime Minister. And I'm not exactly sure, if that is to be seen as humble and admirable or be against such action. As I in his position would not end my tenure and would continue to impose what I see is in the best interest of my people until the end of all things.

However, that just comes from the Alkdorian people historically and culturally preferencing autocratic leadership than democratic leadership. Which if I was actually in his shoes I might have done the same as my entire identity would be very different from who I am now. Nevertheless, I have faith and trust that he made the right call for the good of his people, despite my political differences towards bettering society."[/i]

"Understand this. You may think you're an absolute idiot. But remember, there are folks out there who are a LOT more idiotic than yourself."
"The world is an angry place, getting madder and madder every waking moment of our pitiful existence. So let's all just put on our clown shoes and laugh at it."
