The banknote is voided if damage is too severe, or just becomes a cool art piece.

Littering.

This is usually handled by local Councils (unless you're in a national park) and the fines range from $50 - $250. If you litter in a national park you could be given a fine up to $5,000.

No public hanging, nothing. Exiled, the Regent himself will literally tell you to leave in person, only for you to die in the void of space or the planes of hell simply because you are a clog in scientific advancement and are therefore against the state.

Either five years in prison or more, depending on how severe it is.

Leeching off aid money that is supposed to be for your country development?

We don't receive aid money so it's not strictly a crime. Excessive corruption would get you kicked out of politics and pay a hefty fine though.

Not a crime, but as most Narlandren are plainly outspoken and honest, the host will get an earful of advice on how to cook food.

Conspiracy to commit mass murder and felonious mayhem with an unlawful weapon. Depending on motive, if just morally stupid, up to 5 years hard labor and commitment to a psychiatric facility unto shown not to be a danger to oneself or others. If malicious, 10-20 years hard labor, and commitment to a psychiatric facility until shown not to be a danger to oneself or others. Possible death penalty if there actually was loss of life or limb in the planning.
