"Marshall Hamilton is an eccentric man who knows no boundaries. Christianity is only as forgiving and merciful as the crusaders who wield it. Instead of loathing over the salt mines, freemasons, and all these parties insignificant and oddly resemblant of 1948-esque superficials, perhaps the Marshall should turn eyes elsewhere. Focus his industry towards a new goal. Take down the banners of his face and his likes and replace them with Crosses and the likes of Jesus Christ. Until then, Marquisal is no more Catholic then a freemason, nor more merciful then salt on a wound."

She cares for her people, and though I take issue with the lack of political freedom (though this is to be expected in a monarchy) I can say with certainty that she is a prime example of a benevolent ruler. Leaders of her caliber are worth thousands of tyrants such as Vorster, who ought to take notes from her example."

Ithallians are the definition of unconquerable. They are bound by a brotherhood that can only be forged in a war, for Ithallians, all of them, know the cost of freedom. As long as you respect them and are faithful in your dealings with them, Ithallians will treat you like a member of that family. If not...they don't tend to leave survivors...
