I mean, we can actually create a mathematical definition for evolution in terms of the evolutionary algorithm and then write code to deal with abstract instances of evolution, which basically equates to mathematical proof that evolution works. All that remains is to show that biological systems replicate in such a way as to satisfy the minimal criteria required for evolution to apply to them, something which has already been adequately shown time and again. At this point, we've pretty much proven that not only can evolution happen, it pretty much must happen since it's basically impossible to prevent it from happening.

Michael Jackson - Smooth Criminal

All that redneck disco made me wanna listen to some actual disco/pop ☐

Next one will be one of the most legendary disco songs out there. (Hint: It's not Stayin' Alive)

The Trammps - Disco Inferno

Full 10+ minute version. It's just so much better than that ~3 minute single version.

Actually, there are still some Bob Dylan songs I'd like to listen to before MJ.

Bob Dylan - The Times They Are a-Changin'

From: The Times They Are a-Changin' (1964)
Genre: Folk
