Um, that's a very fucking stupid thing to be arrested for.

Unintentionally killing someone with a sweater.

Not a crime by itself, however, you probably would be sued for that and lose depending on your reasoning and whether or not it was your violin.

Forcing your religion onto others.

Fined the market value of that particular instrument, 1 year hard labor, 1 year average mean wage forfeited for malicious hooliganism, taken to a psychiatric ward for further evaluation. Released once person is assessed to no longer be a danger to himself or others.

Depends on how it is done.

E.g., if it involves kidnapping the charge would be kidnapping (up to 20 years hard labor or death penalty),

If one is forced to eat a magic wafer at gunpoint then criminal coercion, (up to 5 years hard labor if no intent to cause grievous harm or murder, and up to 20 years if intent was to cause harm or murder), etc.

If one is exercising their freedom of speech and right to express their opinion, not a crime.

Sneaking into the local metro bus yard and slashing the tires of all of the buses in the middle of the night?

Shoot on sight orders given to every citizen of the commune. Patrols with hungry angry dogs after that person or persons. Being shredded apart by Union Leader Ben G Wong and his Buddhist meditation induced superpowers.

Impersonating your nations leader in public and defaming/false flagging them with things your leader would actually never say.

Usually, animal abuse means prison time (and occasionally a death sentence), but since cats can easily survive falling long heights, only fines up to $5,000 would be imposed on you.
