Miniskiev has a staggering 100 primary administrative districts ("States"). Of its 211.6 million population, there are more who identify with irreligion than there are who identify with any single religion (or all of them put together).

They have about 7 different armies/garrisons around the world in various places, which is confusing to me; why do they have individual different armies and not just an Army with smaller divisions?

They also have Marines, who only have 5 ships. You can't do much with just five ships...

In their timeline, the USSR took a much more belligerent diplomatic stance, resulting in what surmounts to the colonization of most of Eastern Europe without actually fighting a war for it. This led, in turn, to there not being WWII as we know it. Instead, their World War II started in 1946 and ended in 'the Appocalypse'.

The Confederate Navy has six aircraft carriers, seventeen submarines, twenty-five destroyers and ten cruisers in its fleet, all of which -I got the impression- were originally part of the now severely-weakened US Navy.

The previously amicable relationship between England and Frisia started to fall apart in the midsts of the two former allies' wishes to influence the increasing amount of trade in the narrow sea. By 1542, England had taken a stance that flared up tensions through the repeated blockading of Frisian ports. The war served as a wake-up call of sorts to Frisia, and obligated it to expand and modernize it's (presumably) previously lacking navy. War officially began with the Battle of Amsterdam. It ended with a surprising Frisian victory against the much larger English Navy.

Their modest population of almost 3 million is pretty diverse. Which I expected given the nature of the nation, ethnically 30% of the population is Russian. Another 20% being Galician and 30% being French. The remaining 20% isn't listed. The majority of the population is also Irreligious but a good portion of their populations still following Christianity, Catholicism is considered separate from Christianity however.

IC year is 1849

The Arendellian Empire is a parliamentary monarchy with a national legislature of some eighty seats. No single political party has absolute majority, but the largest party, the so-called Nationalist Front, holds thirty-two of those seats. The exact ideology of this doesn't seem clear from this, but they're most likely conservative, which means they probably have a parliamentary agreement with the Conservative Party, the second largest party in parliament. The Republican Front, who are somehow both republican and conservative in a monarchy in 1849, is the smallest party with just five seats.

That they frequently use 1 penny coins with a value of two/tenths a US cent (assuming they have 100 pennies per pound), a coin that is basically already useless, what the hell are you spending it on? Even if it was 10 pennies per pound that still a bit cheap IMO
