~~Death, no trial, no appeal.~~ Unfortunately, holding French nationality is, since 1946, no longer a crime.

As someone in a position handling vote ballots, taking and burning them before they could be counted (for democracies)

As someone in a position handling classified documents, making copies of them to sell to foreign intelligence agencies (for non-democracies)

Punishable by 10 years in prison and after released, forced to work in conservative natural sites for 5 years with overseings without pay to make sure they do not escape or do things to animals. Only if the animals are classified as endangered and close to extinction. But for animals that are categorized as safe, 1 month in prison and work for natural conservative sites in 1 month with overseings without pay.

Threats of violence may or may not be a crime depending on credibility of the threat and the intent of the perp. If it has been ascertained as a serious credible threat to life, limb or bodily harm, and the perp has means to carry it out, but has not committed to battery (or worse), then:

3rd degree assault -- 30 days in jail or wearing a sandwich board in public with crime for same amount of time, a verbal apology, and sometimes a restraining order. If one does so menacingly, then 2nd degree with up to a year in prison added.

1st degree can be 1-5 years hard labor instead of just prison time.

As a civilian, declaring war on one particular military object, such as parked (and unoccupied) humvee, jeep, or deuce and a half on social media, and then attacking that object with tooth and claw for ratings?

Depends on the principality or territory in question. The stiffest penalty, in Vaslui, is seven years of hard labor. The lightest penalty, in Celko, is sixty days in jail.

Perjury.

Distributist, pagan, history buff, civil libertarian, mostly republican, but willing to accept some monarchy as well being a big King Charles III stan. You've been warned. I'm also very skeptical and critical of Fourth Wave feminism. Delvian States is a confederal monarchy with autonomous principalities that often have their own laws. NS Policies aren't entirely reliable canon for that reason at least.

"Reflect, if you will, how you are to govern a people who think that they ought to be free and think that they are not. Your scheme yields no revenue. It yields nothing but discontent, disorder, and disobedience. And such is the state of America, that after wading up to your eyes in blood, you can only end just where you began....." - Edmund Burke
