(Since King Junius was alive before our time, Christian XI will be speaking in the past tense.)

"King Junius was, by all means, a great example of how a true king should act. He showed exemplary valor in the defense of Constantinople, and he ruled according to the law, he was a man who put his people before himself, these kinds of leaders are what inspire me to help my nation in these trying times, I wish all leaders could be like that of Junius."-Christian XI, King of the Royal Danish Kingdom, Denmark

The Royal Danish Kingdom, the greatest nation to have ever graced Scandinavia.

Keep in mind the only NS-Stats we don't use are our population and military stats, please refer to our factbooks for the appropriate stats.

"An alternate Denmark in which Queen Margarethe was shot on--is that 4/20, as the Westerners and the Internet say?--yes, that is 4/20. She is still very much alive in our timeline. Interesting that he gained the power to become an absolute monarch; I am surprised that, in this day and age, he was able to pull this off without the people and the rest of the government revolting. His response to his mother's death is something I, unfortunately, am...listen, I...I just...." Sniffle "I...get that. I am worried about his consolidation of power, but I really am curious about this alternate Danish powerhouse. They should turn their military into modern-day Vikings; that would be intriguing. And Christian should make sure he is a) succeeded by someone named Frederick and b) careful that he is not...let me put this mildly, betrayed by any siblings. Speaking of which, I wonder what his take on Hamlet would be."

The Statement on Artyom

"Huh, you are a male, but you look kinda... eh. Let's just say that you would be a good tomboy with that look, however, along with the 1.9m height. Now to other stuff..."

"Huh, so he is from middle class and got the proper education, we see... Yes, very few revolutionary vanguards come from lower classes, as they don't have proper consciousness. Almost got the job in ministry of truth, but ended up working as a steel-miller? Yeah, a perfect candidate to be recruited by revolutionaries, we see."

"We don't care much about religion he follows, but we find his nationalism and conservatism as commendable enough - a proud patriot of his land. While we might not get along on stance with LGBTQ+, it is understandable from where he comes from. That said, our biggest disagreement is on right to bear arms - for hunters and soldiers, sure, but most of civies can't be trusted with firearms."

"Overall, neutral with a slight leaning towards positive on him."

"Those "Civies" are the people! The Populi, who are the base and backbone of the state, this is why we trust all our folks to keep and bear arms. It doesn't take a political expert to find out, that our council and their directorate will never agree on many things. They really, really harshly regulate the economy, spawning lots of unnecessary bureaucracy for example. Maybe that's because of soviet mentality? But I like the fact, that they are trying to restore Aral sea. So far, we have neutral disposition."-Shawn Bjomson

As Le Patron was on a cultural tour to Paris; he made his stop into the Museum of Fine Arts in Lyon with the vase carrying the ashes of his great grandfather. In the museum, Le Patron made a ruckus in smashing priceless pieces of art in the exhibition and smothering his grandfather's ashes on a blank canvas. What might just be mere insanity for Konrad; the visitors loved it and thought it had a deeper meaning of "rejecting the past". Afterwards, everybody clapped and Konrad is booted out of France. Not before spraying graffiti on the museum's walls like Banksy.

To King Alastair:
"Boo fucking hoo you're all depressed and turned to a life of vagrancy in escaping reality. Guess what, I don't fucking need mental help. I'm already a liberated man and psychiatric help is just a synonym for "brainwashing" into becoming another mindless puppet of society. But you, Alastair, there's nothing more pitiful than wallowing in sadness and moaning for the good old times."

"I make the good times now with my bare hands as the ideal Futurist man and I certainly don't sit around drinking alcohol as my wife helplessly stands around doing nothing. For fuck sake's, go kill some people and break stuff as a catharsis. It worked for me when I created my own world through my own revolution. BREAK THE DEPRESSION. DO STUFF. YOU DONT NEED A DEGENERATE LIKE ME TO PREACH ON HOW YOU SHOULD LIVE YOUR SHORT LIFE."

The Avant-Gardist State of Patagonia ~~~ Gauchos and Mapuches, orgies and parties, avant-garde art, futurism, syndicalism, the New Man, general strikes, the glorification of violence, spiritual nationalism, esoteric occultism, CIA spooks, Spartanian homosexuality, public sodomy, and more

Triomphe du Surréalisme (1968)

- There are many things said about Patagonia but few actually know what goes on behind the Andes mountains. Tales of human depravation and man's inner darkest self run wild. A place where avant-garde culture flourish and the artist don't fear the censor. Where all live bold and free under the gaze of the Patron. Yet all dreams will come to an end soon...
