Economics is a scary subject that no sane person should have to subject themselves to.

Talking about economies, does anybody else who has wasted too many years of their life on this hellsite remember when it used to actually be difficult to maintain a strong economy and the same if you wanted to get your collapsed

Screw realistic economies, I'll just go spend trillions of dollars on a train 😊

EDIT: No not a train system, no, just one train as in the vehicle itself

I mean as someone who's an avid fan of trains herself, spending trillions on a single locomotive seems perfectly reasonable.
