I mean, we can actually create a mathematical definition for evolution in terms of the evolutionary algorithm and then write code to deal with abstract instances of evolution, which basically equates to mathematical proof that evolution works. All that remains is to show that biological systems replicate in such a way as to satisfy the minimal criteria required for evolution to apply to them, something which has already been adequately shown time and again. At this point, we've pretty much proven that not only can evolution happen, it pretty much must happen since it's basically impossible to prevent it from happening.

I hate that song.

Queen - Nevermore

From: Queen II (1974)
Genre: Soft rock, art rock

One of the most beautiful Queen songs.

Queen - Sheer Heart Attack

From: News Of The World (1977)
Genre: Rock, arena rock, punk rock

Well, it's more like a parody of punk rock, but I still think it's pretty punk.

Watching the last twenty minutes I missed of the System of a Down concert in Yerevan. A damn good one, considering why they're there.

Such a lonely day...

Days like dominoes, all in a line

Emerge transformed in a million years, from days like these
