What kind of music is Aphex Twin? I've heard that name but never actually listened to them, if I remember properly.

Jesu-Farewell.

IDM, electronic, ambient, that sort of stuff. I really like some of his tracks, but I haven't listened to a great portion of his library; he's got lots and lots of stuff out there. You might like him.

Most of his songs aren't all that great, but there're a number of them that're very good.

Very soft

IDM, he's absolutely brilliant. A pioneer of electronic music as we know it, on par with Brian Eno in terms of significance.

My nation DOES NOT reflect my political views. The interplanetary-level Federation government is libertarian only for realism purposes, and functions more like a confederation. Since it has such a large territory to manage, the federal bureaucracy can only provide the bare essentials efficiently, while most other decisions are devolved down to the planetary governments.

Yet it stuck, so it's what I use. He's synonymous with it, ironically.

So I've seen. I use it too but I know he prefers "braindance" or something, so I guess I'd use that around his fans.

Same song as my previous two posts. It's almost done though!

Braindance is too unknown to the general public for me to use, like something a hipster would use to describe him and then follow up with "you've probably never heard of it," even though IDM is naturally elitist-sounding (you know what I mean?). IDM is more identifiable, and braindance applies only to AFX, so it's really not a term I'd use to describe his genre unless this was a forum topic on him.

Even though electronic music gets a lot of hate from the music "Purists" {or whatever they would be called}, who hate anything that has electronic aspects because everything must be "Done with instruments", I quite enjoy a fair amount of electronic music that's ever-growing. I have a playlist of Brian Eno stuff, that I really need to go through. I'll definitely need to look into Aphex Twin. Amon Tobin I've enjoyed a fair amount from what I've heard, too.

spotify:track:4RNNQZNWpdeq8wHDROdhTJ Both of you {Azrael and Earth and the Colonies} may want to give this a try, if you have Spotify. Can't find it anywhere else in full length. Enjoyed the sounds I heard on a video game trailer, and saw it was done by Bad Sector. Interesting dark-type of music. Hard to look into him, though.

Corrian, if there was one electronic artist that I would recommend to you to listen to, it would have to be Boards of Canada. They've transcended electronic music for me somehow, and they blow my mind every time I listen to them. They deserve their own genre the same way Aphex Twin does, I'd describe it as electrostalgia.

Boards of Canada-Dayvan Cowboy

My first BoC song. I got thrown off when I researched them afterwards and found that they weren't some type of rock or post-rock group, but when I listened to the entire album online (The Campfire Headphase), I knew I'd stumbled upon pure gold.
