Bleed, Oxymoron.

we, unlike the bourgeoisie, have nothing to lose and therefore our expression will be the only honest one, our words will be the only challenging ones and our art will be the one revolutionary expression. We need new noise and new voices and new canvases to become something more than the last poets of a useless generation.

Tom Baxter-My Declaration.

I heard this song in the credits of a movie I watched last night, about a 14-year old girl who was the target of an online sexual predator. God people are so disgusting sometimes. The movie was too real it was disturbing (not what they showed, but more the subject matter at hand), but the movie gives a very good message to show that people need to be careful about these things. I honestly think the movie should be showed in schools, despite it's R rating.

It's a strange song. Then again most Queen songs are. Normally there's a message behind a song, but for these songs? I have no idea. But they rock, I mean Queen is awesome, I know the lyrics for most of them and I like them. I just have no freaking clue what they are about haha.
