As a rapper I would have a really hard time remembering all the lyrics, since a lot of times they pack so many lyrics into their songs.

Indeed, I think that's part of the beauty of flow. While Damn It Feels Good to be a Gagnsta is one of the finest examples of gangsta rap lyrics, I find its mellow style far less appealing than the very definition of flow.

These seem to be some long albums. More in the sense there are a lot of long. Like one of the albums has 10 songs and 5 are over 10 minutes long.

That seems a lot closer to classical than the other one. Although it's use of dissonance and deliberately sharp alterations to avoid subconscious prediction of the music, makes it a sort of perverse classical.

Norse Mythology meets Buddhism, Hinduism, Gnosticism and other Abrahamic religions, as well as Classical (roman/greek) and Egyptian Mythology, with a heavy dosage of east-asian culture and shonen anime, and lots death metal. In space.

I feel the same. I really want to sleep but I know I can't. And I woke up tired, so this is not good.

I did, too. I never really woke up today and it was kind of annoying. Which is why I felt so damn tired earlier. It wasn't like I slept particularly bad either, though I did wake up all sore. Hopefully I sleep better tonight.

So I just spent 15 minutes practically spacing out, while I'm tired, listening to a very slow ambient song. Great way to pass out.

While laying in bed.

This album is definitely different. Bad album to choose when tired, though.
