It's easily my favorite The Sugarcubes song (and the first one I listened to). I appreciate the rest of The Sugarcubes but can't really get into their style. But I still appreciate what they did.

Bjork is great. Because of how consistently good she seems to be (For me anyway), I'd probably consider her to be one of my favorites. There are lots of bands/artists with lots of good albums, but they usually dwindle off at some point. Bjork doesn't really seem to do that, though I didn't like her newest quite as much. However, I still liked half the album quite a lot, so...

Eh, I was going to plow through some more stuff to rate, but I don't feel particularly motivated to listen through anything else today, apparently. So stuff I have established I like it is:

Ennio Morricone's score for The Good, the Bad and the Ugly.

"There is one intelligence community and one only. And we are all its victims, wherever we live."

"...taking but not giving, ruling but not obeying, telling but not listening, taking life and not giving it. The slayers govern now, without interference; the dreams of mankind have become empty." -- Philip K. Dick
