List of Guests of Honour for Queen's Day Celebrations
The Queen's Day is celebrated on 17 April every year. Her Majesty has been hosting a foreign head of state as a guest of honour every year since 2012.

Oh, okay. That's cool.

While slavery forms the foundation of their economy, they also focus heavily on agriculture. That and slavery is a dying trend in their world

Hathian Prime does not use NS Stats.

HP and all other nations take place in an AU. HP is not Germany.

Slavery remains legal there into the late 19th century, and remains the core of the Zubayri economy and the current establishment's political power, however European powers are making efforts to curb the practice and the Bey himself is shifting his focus to more profitable and less internationally condemned commodities such as gold and ivory.

At the start of the 20th century, Erusea was a monarchy, but following revolution it turned into a federal republic, and afterwards it became a fascist state, and after that (and losing a war) the victorious countries reimposed the monarchy onto Erusea, bringing everything back full circle to the start of the century. (Not that Erusea is very happy about this, and now that it's the 7th most powerful economy it might be time for revenge at some point...)

A major recession and a toxic political climate in 2022 set off a communist revolution in the United States and Canada. Then, Mexico's military brought the war to their country as well by overthrowing the president.

Ahh, a cautionary tale of runaway global warming and classic human 'I'm not going to worry about this until it becomes a problem'-ism.

It looks like Antarctica (the continent, not the IC name) has been largely de-iced, so the nation lives on the land part of it that hasn't been submerged below the rising sea levels. Originally a lawless and violent country, Antarctica was eventually organised into a united country after three agonising centuries of hate and death, bound together by a new humanistic and free-thinking religion.

Also, the pun:

As it turned out, these changes were just the tip of the iceberg.

I hate you, but I also love you.
