I mean, we can actually create a mathematical definition for evolution in terms of the evolutionary algorithm and then write code to deal with abstract instances of evolution, which basically equates to mathematical proof that evolution works. All that remains is to show that biological systems replicate in such a way as to satisfy the minimal criteria required for evolution to apply to them, something which has already been adequately shown time and again. At this point, we've pretty much proven that not only can evolution happen, it pretty much must happen since it's basically impossible to prevent it from happening.

I'm hoping you'll love it. I did and I still love them, I just don't listen to them as often as I used to.

Same here. I used to listen to them all the time, but lately, except for when I went through all but one of their albums, I haven't listened to them much, mostly due to listening to a ton of other things.
