The endonym of Hatsunia is "Hatsune-koku" which translates to 'land of the first sounds.' This refers to the far-eastern position of the country similarly to Japan's nickname of 'land of the rising sun.' Further, the name "Hatsune" by itself is never used to refer to the country in Hatsunese, but is often used in its adjective form.

Unlike most economies which focus on continuous growth, the economy of Shtet concentrates on maintaining a status quo, keeping everything stable.

An alternate history version of China in which the alliance between the Kuomintang and the Communist Party never broke down, eventually resulting in a federalized, democratic China. Though one of the world's strongest economies and an emerging superpower, China continues to suffer from high rates of income inequality, an overreaching and sometimes corrupt government, and cultural issues that continue to persist despite the efforts of many reformers over the decades. Most factbooks are still an active WIP.

That's their position on the left-right spectrum, big tent means they appeal to people across the spectrum.

One of their political parties is literally called the "War Party" which probably would resemble an ultranationalist/fascist party IRL and adopts the infamous belief that might makes right. They believe that all aliens are inferior to the Remulian race, which are basically humans with ram horns.

I am somewhat surprised to see that they appear to speak Japanese widely in the Yuzhno-Sakhalinsk of New Transeurasia. It just interested me because IRL most Japanese population we're likely deported from the region (perhaps with the exception of Ainu people) when the Soviet took Yuzhno-Sakhalinsk back. It is a fascinating detail that shapes your alternate timeline even more.

They have a law on the books regarding secularization in which they state that police cannot investigate people for activities involving religion or the lack thereof. This raises a question about what this would mean for any cults that might pop up that practice arranged marriages that might otherwise violate state law.

North Germany is currently part of the "Big Five", a collection of five nations powerful and influential enough to take charge of global affairs. The other four are the Tsardom of Russia, the British Commonwealth, the United States, and the Japanese Empire. They are also part of the German Confederation, a regional organisation composed of German-speaking nationstates.

Their nation controls the entirety of New England and the Mid-Atlantic region, with 10 states. Also apparently they had openly LGBT people in the 1630s.

Good for them, sexuality is not the government's business, except for documentation(ie ID cards, passports, etc.)
