Read that whole thing. Sounds great. I'm interested in the new traffic system, because, like others, I did find the traffic system weird in Sim City 4 with cars poofing and such. More advanced traffic in a city building game is definitely a plus. I need to play more SimCity Societies as well...but my computer is kinda lame. Do you have any idea of they are bringing driving in cars back?

Muse-The 2nd Law-Album Trailer.

Dude, I'm actually curious to hear what the new Muse albums like. I actually kinda lol'd at the Dubstep guitar solo. Honestly, I almost want it as at least part of a song, but I don't really know with Muse. They could just be trolling the internet with a joke Dubstep thing because it's so trendy these days. But honestly, a Dubstep guitar solo's actually kinda sweet.

Muse-Survival.

I'm actually happy to hear that Muse didn't go all generic-like once they got really popular. Too many bands (Like Nickelback), once they get popular, or always, they just have one album after the other that sounds generic. At least Muse is still trying something different with their music. They don't give in to being popular and pleasing the mindless masses that need every album to sound exactly the same.

Also, this is the official song of the 2012 London Olympics, which doesn't surprise me at all since Muse is from London.
