Only a crime 1. In the military or 2. Amongst indentured servants. In each case it's a tazeer (discretionary) offence but indentured servants can be either subjected to corporal punishment or imprisoned (their prison term starting when their seven years of servitude runs out). Military personnel can be subjected to corporal punishment, executed or imprisoned but the first two must take place in private (unlike with indentured servants who may be flogged in public).

Extrajudicial murder, particularly without cause, carries with it the death penalty. To execute someone for their lifestyle choices is a breach of trust, and even nobles may find themselves hung if they are caught doing so. Because, in the end, Wexas is still a civilized nation.

Depends on if you're a government employee or not. If you are, that's a breach of your oath of loyalty to the state and the revolution, and punishable by termination of employment. If you're not, no punishment as long as you don't take any action on that hatred.

That really depends. If the murder is premeditated, the punishment would be life in prison, or death for a government official. However, if the offender is a member of the armed forces specifically, the wife and lover would also be guilty of compromising the integrity of the armed forces (via causing emotional distress to a serviceman). Being that the punishment for said crime is not death, however, shooting the lover would still result in 30 years in prison for the offender and 5 years for the wife. If the murder was a crime of passion, the punishment would be life in prison for a government official, 30 years for a citizen or 20 years for an armed forces member, again due to the fact that the person killed was also committing a crime.

IC: the Order of Mare Nostrum, but are also known as the Knights of Mare Nostrum or simply Mare Nostrum. The year is 2022, with PMT tech.
Anthem: Ave Regina Caelorum

The Knights of Mare Nostrum are an order formed in 1189 centered around islands in the Mediterranean after the Knights Hospitaller and Templar merged, along with the integration of other knightly orders through history, and now serve a role as a militarized wing of the Papacy which utilises what is essentially hyper-militaristic canon law.

That depends. If you're a government official, the sentence is death no matter what, but if you're not there are a couple ways it could go.
You're definitely getting charged with cannibalism (sub-offense under disregard for the sanctity of human life), which carries a 10 year sentence, but if the home intruder was armed or can be proven to have intended to maim or kill the inhabitant(s) of the home you'll probably avoid a murder charge. If those circumstances don't apply, however, life in prison.
