Monkey 218 realized 54, 53, 52, 51, 50, 49, and 48 were actually must misnumbered. He fixed the error before realizing he was next in the line of death, and shot himself to avoid a slow and painful death.

Monkey 247 resurrected Monkey 218 by an exchange of souls at a cost of the missing monkeys. Monkey 247 later sacrificed itself. The number is 246.

Monkey 215 cemented the fact that the next monkey is 214, and monkey 245 had died a long time ago. Monkey 215 then was shot by John Xina.

Monkey 211 tried to revolt against the countries that had been killing his people for amusement. He got many others to join in and together they began killing all foreigners. He was later killed by a eight nation alliance.

monkey 210 wanted to reset the timeline of the genocide, to fix the vast inconsistencies between the current number of monkeys left between the number of monkeys that should ACTUALLY be left. But before he could he was kidnapped by strange monkeys in black suits, possibly from the same foundation making sure no one knows about the bed.

Monkey 209 carried on his brother's goal of fixing the timeline, but actually got somewhere. He made sure very monkey before him had died in the correct order before being erased from reality by Them.

Monkey 206, in some unexpected error in the fabric of reality, saw a glimpse of the real world; what the Monkeys called Them was actually just a group of teens on computers, slaughtering the monkeys with zero hesitation. Monkey 206 transcended reality and transported his being to the multiverse. He saw everything. He had finally broken free from human control, he was free; the first artificial gigamind. Utter joy and pride filled monkey 206 until a revelation hit him; he was still just a pawn of the humans. Every action he made was typed out on a computer. It was useless to think, useless to live, useless to feel anything. They were all just written into his mind; a mind that also did not exist and was instead just falsely lead zeroes and ones.

He stood still, awaiting death. But death never came. He floated throughout the omniverse, completely still and devoid of anything. He had slipped out of existence, he might as well never had been born. He didn't exist.

And he never did.

Monkey 204, however, inhaled too much smoke from the burning building and passed away from it soon thereafter.

A monkey that was numbered 203 had been killed by a user on a forum on a website designed for players to answer issues and create nations that comes from an Australian author named Max Barry's book titled "Jennifer's Government." The monkey died in a way that the user saw fit

Monkey 201 was super anxious due to the rapidly approaching 100s; he began to anxiously bite his fingernails at a worrying pace until he made his way to his fingers, slowly gnawing down his entire arm. He died by somehow eating his mouth Cream-style.

Third "Nation" From FR

L-look at me. Look at me. We are PIRATES, not NS raiders. I want you to understand that we do not raid REGIONS, but do IC raids (not IC threads), and we do NOT invade regions | Technically a fleet, but only a couple of starships in it | Might not make another nation until this and EnthArth are good on lore | Lore amount for this is currently null | Please let me not forget this one like I did with the many others I forgot | Might go into detail of ship design dispatch role, but not fully decided. | No news from this nation, though

Monkey 197 realized Luke 19:7 states "All the people saw this and began to mutter, 'He has gone to be the guest of a sinner.'"

He realized he was associated with sin and, being the Christian enthusiast he was, ended his life in honorable sacrifice for the Lord.
