Don't you think that the drive for obey has gone on long eno

Don't you think the drive for wealth has gone on long enough?
Come on now, you no how many wars have been fought over the stuff? Don't you think it would be better for everyone if it died out? There wold still be wars, but no more drive for personal wealth, which made people selfish and crule in the first place.

If we replaced it with say, self improvement, wouldn't that be better for everyone in the end?

That's a neat name for a song.

This sort of stuff always reminds me of one quote,

"We are a civilization all about having, not about being, that's why we're doomed."

Something along those lines, don't even remembers from who it was.
