The point of that song is to kind of make a point about the degrading of music videos these days or something, isn't it? I don't remember exactly.

Yeah, after he describes how to create a "fuck-shit stack" the song mostly becomes a deconstruction of how many rap artists depict themselves both in their stage personas and their videos. I don't watch a lot of rap videos lately, but it's a dead-on parody of how rap groups in the 90's and early 2000's showed ridiculously tricked out cars, strippers and assault weapons as a part of their day-to-day lives.

Thought it was something like that. Thanks for explaining.

Some other bands do that, too Shudders like all these shitty, generic rock bands singing about strippers.

Cooker - The Frantics

For 400 bucks you were sweet that day. Guess I should have known you'd never repay.
