Ooo psychedelic sludge. I like these hybrid genres. I prefer it over both psychedelic and sludge. Now I'm curious about blackened sludge...

Try my link since it's higher than 240p.

Okay, I'm having a "I want to listen to some metal but I really don't know what metal I want to listen to right now" moment...

Edit: Got distracted with some real life things.

This is a hybrid of atmospheric black metal and doom. It's awesome. I only found this band because you showed me psychedelic sludge and it got me curious about black/doom hybrids. You've done a good deed today. Try the song.

What do you think of this Luveria? Not really sure what I think your opinion on it would be. I know I badmouthed it when I first heard it and the band itself but they grew on me for some reason. And apparently I got used to the vocal style I don't typically care for. I think it is because they sounded like more creative hard rock (The song I posted leaning more towards metal)

They have a new album out but I'm not sure if I want to listen to it or not.

listens

The vocals are too weenie for me. The music is too slow and not in the good doomy way. The lyrics are sub-par. The song has that happy vibe I can't stand. ☐ Escaping that happy vibe is why I turn to black metal to feel better. I'm not saying it's a bad band. It's just not my thing at all because it gives me bad feels.

goes back to soothing atmospheric black doom

Yeah, I didn't really think they would be your thing. And that vocal style isn't really a style I enjoy much most of the time, either. I don't even pay attention to the lyrics. I don't see the song as happy, either ☐

Also, been listening to that song. As far as black metal stuff goes, I'll probably definitely be leaning towards bands like these.
