Wrong thread pal, this is about ANs banner.

I will judge your banner now

I think they are very technologically advanced and have very hygenic cities

They have very big and modern cities, but they are plagued by rodents like mice and rats, something that has attracted many cats to the cities. Humans did not take long to realize that having lots of cats was a good thing as they eliminated the rodents in their houses, so, soon, almost every person adopted a cat as a pet, leading to the nation becoming one of the nations with the highest cats per capita ratio in the world.

Its a landscape painting of the IA government ministers, all which seem to suspiciously resemble historical figures from our timeline. Might be a coincidence or might be not. Who knows besides the AU themselves.
