Girls Generation - Gee.

Hey you probably didn't expect Val to be a fan of K-pop. Well, I am! This song was ALL the range back then in like 2010 and 2011, I believe. If your school has a talent day or dance day, expect this song.

Plasterbrain - Nimbasa Core

This song is my very first song in my player, and it is the song that introduced me to electronic music again :) and yes, it is one of the "desktop songs" in my player.

This song was released in 2013 by Erin Blaber (Plasterbrain), an American singer, musician and voice actor who performs primarily in the genres of indie electronic, alternative and experimental electronic music. The song is written in the electronic subgenre of weirdcore and is characterized by a fun electronic part and carefree vocals of the musician herself. The lyrics of the song tell about her inner struggle with herself, who starts relationships with guys and then breaks up with them, wanting and loving them only because of their looks.

strxberrymilk - вісхуаєш віреп?

Well, Strxberrymilk is a German breakcore artist, at least there is no more information. They are not a frequent guest in my player, but this song is the 3rd one in my player. This is also one of my first songs from the breakcore subgenre.

Overall, this song was released on January 7, 2022. This song is written in the style of electronic music in the subgenre of breakcore. The song is from the album "Ocean Please!". It has a very good clear rhythm and a very strong energy.
