I mean, we can actually create a mathematical definition for evolution in terms of the evolutionary algorithm and then write code to deal with abstract instances of evolution, which basically equates to mathematical proof that evolution works. All that remains is to show that biological systems replicate in such a way as to satisfy the minimal criteria required for evolution to apply to them, something which has already been adequately shown time and again. At this point, we've pretty much proven that not only can evolution happen, it pretty much must happen since it's basically impossible to prevent it from happening.

Forgot how great this music is. You have to be one who likes mellow music, though, and be in the mood for it. Even this is stuff that is too slow for me when I'm in a certain mood, and I'm one who loves slow music. Haven't been hugely in a metal mood right now so that is probably why I'm in the mood for that.

Ignore the fact I've gone through like, 4 different metal bands recently. I should say very heavy metal bands haven't been my thing right now.
