"Did somebody say Vampires? And Socialism? Socialist vampires? Oh God, I think I'm in love! Well, not actually. That'd be... questionable, to say the least. Nonetheless, Narcissus is an interesting... man, if that's the right word. I'd be happy to do business with him, in fact. Of course, Sarkos never liked him. But what did that old fool like? Frivolous morality and worthless tradition. I'd have a drink with Narcissus any day of the week, that's for certain. Just as long as he doesn't look towards me for said drink, heh. Heh... Anyway, as I was saying, his stance towards the administration of the state is optimal. The men under Narcissus fear him. And fear is the optimal way to rule, whether the hippies in this world like it or not."

"I have never hidden my dislike for monarchs, especially those with minimal power and ridiculously long and arrogant titles. To make matters worse, all of the Emperor's decrees seem to be oriented at weakening the unity and strength of his own country. Why?

Unfortunately, I do not have a good impression of the Chancellor either. His policies are more libertarian contradictory nonsense: he claims to support 'law and order' but allows immorality to run free, and he claims to support 'personal freedoms' while leaving his people at the mercy of predatory greed (the SSLA, for example, does not go far enough. Why do students need to borrow money in the first place?). He is not particularly innovative, he just follows the same capitalist, liberal, decadent failed policies like many others have done before. At least, though, I have to agree that in politics, you always need a short- and long-term plan"

"Because law and order mean, that people can safely walk outside both day and night and enjoy their lives. Not all that "sex is bad" and "kiss party asses" nonsense! I guess, no wonder, many people see communism as evil and call it a "Red Menace", because people like him under it's flag, do a full range of shitty things. Like... attempting to micromanage all economy and creating a massive and slow-ass bureaucratic apparatus, that because of it's nature can never adapt to swift changes and currents, and thus, one region suffers deficiency of the resource it needs, while other has tons of it, gatheting dust in warehouses. Computerization can only do so much... He says something in constitution about non-discrimination, and yet screws it over by his persecution of "undesirable" social groups.

Trust me, many of his people follow him, not his ideas. And once he is dead or retired... the next dude gonna come in and blame his cult of personality, while party nomenklatura gonna go loco over the power vacuum and all pull the blanket on their sides, until they eventually tear it in many pieces. History will repeat itself...

Still, at least he did some good for his place. After all, workers have at least some sort of decent life standards, and he did made punishments less severe. Far, far better than ol' Pol Pot, that's for sure!" -Shawn Bjomson with maintaining orderly society and educated society were citizens will be less prone to become criminals, if they get good enough education to become productive members of their society. And his stance on protecting the environment is commendable. A nation can not prosper, if it's environmental state is equivalent to Mars' surface. Overall assessment is neutral.

His policies are surprisingly competent

Rapture City

- In the underwater city, two roles have emerged from the City's ongoing civil war: the City Monitors who defend the peace and the Red Caps who fight against unjust systems. The city's infrastructure is crumbling under its own weight and kinship is snuffed by the paranoia of totalitarianism. Yet the people would be in for a surprise as their virtual overlord have died many years ago as the oppression continues under his name...
- Not an 1-1 exact replica of Bioshock lore and Rapture City. Only the city's atmosphere and setting is maintained.

Vin. Zolina tnt. Natasha Vasilisa Helen Ceeta Tescelyn Maximovna: It has come to my attention that there seems to be a change in leadership in Low Bloods. Mr. Low, or Oni, or whoever that the Valentians have talked to in the past has seemed to have deceased, and this is on top of the heinous attack from The Rapture Republic that is seen as asinine by most of the international community. I can only do nothing much but yearn and lament their losses, and wishing them all the best moving forward. I am more or less positive towards them, that is without a doubt true, and at the same time, we must get hold of Rapture and see what is seriously up with them. I am aware of their warmongering nature, but we seriously cannot have them loose like that.

As for Mr. Shawn, it has been the same between me and the rest of the Valentians. I have not seen any anomalies with them so far, and I am very glad for that. Not that I have any reasons of distrust anyway, but you will never know if they have someone in their ranks inciting violence and hatred with their allies. I am glad to detail this in my writing that there is no such thing happening, and the Valentians and the allies of Skyhooked can rest easy knowing that there is no hostility among their ranks. I am also eager to make connections with their own espionage and spy network, in hopes that Valentine Z and Skyhooked will benefit from the common knowledge that we will possibly get.

END OF REPORT.

I heard he is a decent person, but I have conflicting sources on whether he's 118 or 137 years old as of now [2020]. He should hire better biographers. I understand that it is important to have contemporary information, and that scholarly journals are the best source for such things, but the amount of material out there in English is just overwhelming and contradictory. I would appreciate any help with this.

"I can equate the simple, comprehensive writing of Morthaw's biography to that of a child's reading level: so easy to understand and not challenging enough to give the impression he lacks the mental capacity of a seasoned ruler with achievements that can convince me he hasn't hired a small child to write his biography for him. If he can, with his own two legs, he can step down and let someone else lead his country, preferably a younger leader."

take the burden upon himself. He truly has failed to obtain a sliver of respect not from me, but to everyone else within and without of his country."

One of the few nation's with a frightening economy, without a single car. One of the most developed nations, but our government is corrupt as fridge. Tourist hot-spot, but the ruler Vindalbal II refuses to even put basic footwear on. Environmentalist, Nationalist, Vincaracist, Gladesville. PewDiePie is also a nasty person.
