In parts, but for the most part, no, not really. It was a nice ambient song, I have to say. I've heard better, but nice.

Yup:) If you like ambient music, there may be some things I could send your way.

I've probably heard more Beatles song then I'm aware of.

And what's with all of these famous bands/artists and their not so impressive song names?:P Not that song name really matters.

I've never really listened to ambient music. I'll tell you if I want to though.

Yes. I loved We Will Rock You before being a Queen fan, and I didn't even know it was by them.

IDK. Maybe to make it sound more simple. Not every famous bands' song name is unimpressive though.

The Beatles- Eight Days A Week

Yeah. I've had the same thing with names {Like I personally don't think The Beatles is an impressive name}, but there are definitely good names out there. And I really don't think names matter that much, though I do like a cool song name and a cool band name. Like I like the name Teledubgnosis for a band, and "We Always Think There Will Be More Time..." is a great song name in my opinion, because it seems to pretty much sum up how us humans seem to treat stuff all the time (Like global warming).

Like Muse is a cool name, Queen is a very "regal" name, Led Zeppelin and Pink Floyd also sound cool. And Linkin Park.

The first two are simple, but they work. Led Zeppelin, Linkin Park, and Pink Floyd definitely work too, though I'm not sure if they have a bigger meaning.

My family named our family band, that never does anything, "Thunder Milk", to show how much we care about names. This name manifested in Caribou, Maine, where we lived for a year 1/2, on a night where it was thundering and there was a milk carton on the table. Viola! Band name!.....

You have a family band? Sounds cool. Btw, like the name "Thunder Milk".

I think the meaning of Led Zeppelin is that "Led" is basically lead. And "Zeppelin" as in blimp. But one's heavy, one's light. Heavy Light. That's my theory.

Yeah, but it doesn't really do anything. We do sometimes, but not much. And yeah, we've always been weird....

And that seems like a good theory to me.

thunder milk is a fantastic name for a band.

good luck in jail! drive like jehu

we, unlike the bourgeoisie, have nothing to lose and therefore our expression will be the only honest one, our words will be the only challenging ones and our art will be the one revolutionary expression. We need new noise and new voices and new canvases to become something more than the last poets of a useless generation.

Solstafir-Pin Oro

Well technically it is one song, but it would be better described as a oratorio, a large musical composition.
