I was itching to talk about the semi-fictional war and campaign in Burma, but... ehh, I will leave it at that. I already talked a lot about it on the questions thread. ^^;

I mean I get it, be a bit boring if everyone just says things like 'Your nation's punishment for murder/assault/fraud/carjacking/whatever' but I feel there's also a huge gap between 'What is your nation's punishment for murder?' and 'What is your nation's punishment for dancing around naked while covered in snail slime in front of your nation's legislature while singing about how you're such a pretty princess and throwing the equivalent of $100 bills to all passers-by?'

Hit the nail on the head with this one tbh

People bringing offsite discord drama into RPs and making entire RPs for OOC spite

This has gotten much better lately (except for the 4 letter alliance one-liner crew), but I remember when a good chunk of the II community was caught up in a shitton of petty discord drama a while back

One of the four letter alliances got their discussion threads locked because there was too much OOC chatter about stuff not even related to RP so that's a win I guess. They can just go be toxic on discord instead of doing it publicly on My memory is vague so I don't remember which nation used this image, but I remember it somewhere in their military factbooks that it is used by their FT military.

Show Spoiler

This looks nothing like a military-grade FT airplane, yet they described it as such in their factbook.

Edit:

I remember that nation.

I believe their excuse was 'it looks like a civilian plane to lure the enemy into a false sense of security'.

Yes, though, some FT nations seem to just use pictures of the largest sci-fi vehicles they could find.

While we're on the topic of images... people, we need to talk.

A lot of nations I've seen with pictures of their military keep the backgrounds in the image. This makes it look significantly worse than putting the time into removing the background off of things. And if you don't know how to remove the background...

I remember there was a nation based on a Free Syria led by Bashar al-Assad's gay son; he was liberal, attractive, and his policies were too perfect.

We should just put an end to overly attractive fashion models ruling Middle East-based nations.

I've seen plenty of dispatches over the years since, like, 2017, and most of the time I see nations based on countries in the Middle East just ruled by this perfect looking leader. Perhaps it's just a pet peeve of mine seeing a country "ravaged by discord" stabilized by some fashion model-esque person.

It's more fun to have a leader who does not win beauty contests in my opinion. RL leaders, for the most part, are not Hollywood attractive (which is an unrealistic standard anyway). Like, in the hot or not thread here, rankings for Alastair are all over the place; I'm obviously biased and would rank him a 10/10, especially since he's got a great smile, and would rank Marie below him. But most people probably see Marie as being better-looking than Alastair.
