It would appear the demented fossil that attempted to smear me with childish insults, how adorable and at the same time saddening. His mental state is truly taking a dive in the toilet and perhaps crashing down into the sewer too, if he does not receive professional soon. Perhaps if his health system is too inept to save the Kazimir from reaching the territory of incurable. Rapture shall intervene and cure him from the afflictions plaguing his sick mind. After all, we have scrap our non-interventionist policy.

Rapture City

- In the underwater city, two roles have emerged from the City's ongoing civil war: the City Monitors who defend the peace and the Red Caps who fight against unjust systems. The city's infrastructure is crumbling under its own weight and kinship is snuffed by the paranoia of totalitarianism. Yet the people would be in for a surprise as their virtual overlord have died many years ago as the oppression continues under his name...
- Not an 1-1 exact replica of Bioshock lore and Rapture City. Only the city's atmosphere and setting is maintained.

"Ah, John Mercer. As much as we may disagree on some fronts politically, he's possibly one of the most competent leaders I have had the pleasure of observing. His willingness to do what he must for victory is quite admirable, something that many others are too cowardly to commit to. Quite similar to my friend's husband, actually.....I digress. Despite his questionable views on nationalism, I can very much declare Mercer to be far from awful."

What happens when you cross anime powers and overpowered leaders with furies, all written by a bored Homestuck fan with too much time? Well, you get Rumei. A multiethnic, FT republic with both might and magic that let it conquer the entire Orion Arm.

South Reinkalistan is a massive, ecologically-diverse nation notable for its roving student militias and widespread hatred for the elderly. In the midst of a room-temperature cultural revolution that's lost its momentum, the Party carefully plans its next move. As the brittle bones of fragile empires begin to crack beneath their own weight, history's symphony reaches crescendo pitch. The future is all but certain.

"You want to get rid of technology? For what reason? Just to spite that Alexander guy? I think wanting to destroy technological civilization to spite a totalitarian Futurist regime is petty. Plenty of nations have adopted technology without being taken over by totalitarian governments or ending up as capitalist shitholes. Now, I think Vikernia is actually small enough to be perfectly fine as an agrarian republic like the forest cantons of Switzerland. Makes me almost jealous. You can go full Jeffersonianism without having to worry about maintaining military strength to protect your independence. You know, things like pesky foreign powers and all. And, having to make all of your own damn goods because no one wants to trade with the big bad racist. Hmph! Ultimately though, I think you can have decentralized society combined with advanced technology. If anything, the technology I offer has decentralized society to a point never before seen in history. I can free you from Alexander's tyranny and ascend you to godhood if you just put your brain into a vat. Trust me, it did wonders for me! Plus, you don't even have to lynch n-----s because there aren't any in your country! I think.... Then again, America did get nuked in a total war against China and the whole Enclave thing happened. And, things didn't get improved until I literally made everyone into a GOD and purged the nation of undesirable nonwhites. That and literally programming a form of government that runs itself. Maybe, you do have a point...N-No! You're just sounding like a redskin. Bah!"

His leadership so far has been relatively decent despite the delusions of uniting the multiverse under it's banner. I do not find such a concept to be practical in anyway or form, an empire must end its expansionist campaigns before they start having issues with governing the newly conquered worlds and inevitably face rebellions that will become their undoing, however, that at the moment remains to be seen and if I am proven to wrong. I shall eat my words on the limitations to sustaining a stable empire. Otherwise, there is nothing more I can say about him besides recommending him see his nation's equivalent to a plastic surgeon.

The Rapture Republic:

"Digo, si. The guy saved Rapture from falling into anarchy and all of that, but that doesn't mean I've got to like him, there's a couple of redeeming features he has such as his majorly non-interventionist policy, which he sadly broke recently, but well, there's also the whole governance of Rapture under him that, to me, seems to be outright oppressive, and the whole "Vamos pa' lante sin importar que" mentality, sin mencionar que, besides his Rapture-saving acts, he's pretty much an empty shell when it comes to his background. Desearía poder decir mas, but there isn't much to tell besides his othergodly abilities, which seriously freak me out"
- Sandro Mèndez, Procuratore Generale della Repubblica Stanieresa

AN:

"Bueno, la historia de Virgil es sketchy as it sounds taken out of fantasy book to some extent, particularmente the thing about his immortalidad. Since he appears to be, at least from what I can read, a guy who wants to be seen, but at the same time not much, I get the whole Agnosticism thing whilst still being culturally Christian, it's a bit of a standard thing around here. His political opinions are a massive mixed bag that collides with my own beliefs duramente, particularly his stance on libertarianism, genetic modification, and immigrant assimilation, en otras palabras, decir que nos caeríamos a madrazos en un debate político sería decir muy, muy poco"

I really hoped that he continued his career as he is worth watching.

For me he fits in his capacity as Procurator-General perfectly, as he has great long-term thinking and is an excellent professional. He is also an admirable problem-solver, which gives him good ideas in attacking the bottlenecks of his office."

Psychotic Dictatorship

What on this forsaken planet is that hair? I want to rip his head off just looking at it. He's a "man of tradition", apparently - is that one of his traditions? How disgusting. There doesn't seem to be much else on him, though the fact that he never joined his country's military makes me question whether he deserves his current rank. And yet he complains of not being even higher. What a worm.

Awww, sorry. Didn't mean to offend you.

Ignis States:

I'd comment on his strange appearance, but he explicitly said not to so I'll refrain for the sake of courtesy. He definitely looks better than the Kaiser, at least. His efforts to expand his nation's military, further scientific progress, and promote environmental sustainability are commendable, and it's always nice seeing another elective emperor around here. Hereditary ones tend to have so much ridiculous pomp. I'm not exactly down-to-earth, mind you, but it's different. Overall we seem to agree on a number of aspects, I'd say my opinion is slightly positive.

"Now the lad sounds like he's someone who is definitely from Talon, with all of that dark aura and brooding and all. So, really, I cannot say that the man is the kind that an ordinary person finds approachable, even likesable to be frank there. And, yes, his...pet does not help me come up something complimentary. Should I pay Emily a quick visit? No, gotta focus!"

We have established the fact that there are many other versions of me in this multiverse, but strange enough, this is probably the first time I have encountered them directly on the international grounds. The other "Tracer" I know have more or less stayed away from politics, and perhaps it is just me and her... so far. I wonder what will happen if both of us went into a fight.

Maybe I will win, given the powers that I have, hm hm! Well, I am going to be positive on her, I suppose. She doesn't seem to be a dicked evil version of myself, so... at least I am very glad that someone didn't join Talon just because she wants to do bad deeds and the like.

"I have read so much about Ms. Gwen's bizarre adventures that I am so curious to meet her in person... and indeed, she is a bizarre character. Don't worry -- I am not going to ask how you deal with your multiversal powers and dimensional businesses or ask you philosophical questions with no real answer. That is the Premier's job, not mine."

"You are more than welcomed for us here in the United Federation, as one of our old friends in this... less than friendly multiverse. In fact, we are quite happy that you exist to brighten up this damn void! I wish you and your folk back in your nation a wonderful day -- this one is my job."

PMT/Early FT - Decopunk. Zitravgrad is a crowned republic in a planet somewhere else in the universe. The formerly wartorn nation keeps a facade of normalcy and order while enjoying the societal and cultural decadence that marks the new Roaring Twenties. The paranoid authoritarian government tries its best to uphold order in the face of uncertainty, while its people want nothing more than a breathing space. A deal that works, but maybe not in the long run. | My NS-Related Art | Hehe bad meme as flag

"Zdorovenki buli, my friend! It's always nice to see someone from good ol' Zitravgrad! That all orderly comrade of Skyhooked! Don't ya' go all lawful and shy on me, when interactin' diplomatically, cuz I'll be always glad to answer any philosophical question from ya', regardless of meaning!

Now, what can I say... it is awesome, that despite all the hardships and suffering in life he manages to hold the responsibilities of such a position! With such a skill in international relation law, Dr. Adam Yanovich shall open up many horizons for Zitravgrad! I do confess, that I'd have a hard time gettin' a doctorate in International relations, cuz I am just too chaotic for all those protocols, my mind would reject many of them them... I rely more on my charisma, silver tongue and sometimes intimidating appearance and subtle body language, that send subconscious messages.

Either way, this one goes for a masterful Prime minister of Zitravgrad! A toast to his mental fortitude of a true warrior! Farewell!"-Shawn Bjomson drinking a bottle of vodka.

Skyhooked is MT/PMT with a few FT elements. Military is factbook only. NS stats are mostly non canon.

"Borders are Illegal."

The Osean and Belkan Alliance.

"Osea, Belka, now united as one."

A world where Belka fell into a civil war after the Belkan War, Osea and Belka unite as one nation and one alliance, and no they aren't scheming, they watch in silence as Erusean radicals are gunned down.
