They are in F7 a lot, so I think there are many other who would have seen them by now especially that they've joined the forum since 2020. So I would say, relatively to quite well-known.

I would say somewhat known, and I've seen them around, but by post count, they were either 1. Super active at one time, or 2. Active in II

I've seen them around pretty much ever since my original journey into the forums, so they're very well known by me, but I'm not sure if the same applies vice versa.

(I may or may not have also participated in an RP with them in the past, but that memory is a foggy one)

Very well-known. They have managed to make quite a name for themselves in NS, and F7, specifically, with their remarkably active appearances and their lore that left some kind of impression on other people that makes it hard to miss them. I mean, it's not everyday that you see some kind of nation inspired from a hypothetical union between Old Norse people and the Inuits.

They are well-known in a sense, since they are active in F7, and....I suppose I've seen them before in General? At the very least, I guess more than plenty of people would have already saw or interacted with them in any case for them to warrant a "well-known" status.

Their nation is officially a year old, but with less than 100 posts overall on either forum, I would venture out and say that they aren't particularly well-known or regarded.
