Grails-Alms

Weakest Grails album so far. I prefer their later sounds. Still gave it a 7.5/10 (Rounded to a 4 (8) on RYM), so "weakest" isn't exactly bad.

Now for the last album.

Lanterna-Luminous

Nice chill post-rock. As someone described, it kinda sounds like "the desert". Despite being the lowest rated on RYM, this is probably my favorite Lanterna album. That might be from me listening to this one before the others, but I kinda doubt it. It just has a good chill vibe for when I need that. Nothing groundbreaking in post-rock or in general by any means, but something to put on if I just wanna chill. Probably will buy this album just for that.

Doesn't cater to post-rock crescendo stereotypes, so there's that.

Complex magazine put this album at number 4 on their top 40 albums of the year (so far) list. Considering Popcaan is a dancehall artist from Jamaica, this is a pretty damn big deal. Never really been a fan of his but achieving an accomplishment like that, beating out projects from major American artists, definitely makes this album worth giving a listen.

sleepmakeswaves-To You They Are Birds, To Me They Are Voices in the Forest

These guys manage to do hurr durr crescendo post-rock more interestingly. And even they don't do that as often as a lot of bands do.

sleepmakeswaves-One Day I Will Teach You to Let Go of Your Fears

Has post-rock stereotypes, but this EP varies enough for me to find enjoyment with them. Might not listen to all the time, but I still approve of it enough. 8/10.

Edit: RYM says One Day You Will Teach Me to Let Go of My Fears, and Spotify says One Day I Will Teach You to Let Go of Your Fears.....

Sainkho Namtchylak-Runnin' Tapes

Tuvan music. She's an extremely impressive vocalist. Heard she has a 7 octave singing range, and not only that, but she does some pretty varied things with her voice. Some of her albums entirely evolve around making weird noises with voices, and that's about it.

This is one of my favorite songs of hers. It's like this weird electronic thing. Not sure what to call it entirely.

8.6/10 for the Popcaan album. I have hopes that this is a sign that dancehall is moving again after being stagnant, creatively and musically, for the past decade or so.

27 minute song. Not sure I should have picked long, slowly plodding songs to rate right now when I'm having sleep problems.
