"An Emperor, eh? Haven't seen any of those in a while. This Nicholas certainly seems to be a unique individual, to say the least. I'm not one to believe in anything so metaphysical as gods, but I'll grant that he's a spectacularly powerful entity by my standards, and one that has existed for far, far langer than I. But it would seem that wisdom doesn't necessarily come with age."

"You'd think that someone who has existed for thousands of years i one form or another would be a bit more enlightened, but Emperor Nicholas is naught but a common despot, despite any objections to the contrary. Absolute rule is, quite frankly, not an effective system of government, and his relentless militarism is proof of that. The man is a warlord, perhaps comparable to the so-called great men of human history, such as Napoleon or Genghis Khan, but ultimately not much more. He has not aided in the advancement of his species and civilisation, ultimately he has only had them back, his power and lifespan only making it more tragic. At least his end will allow for true growth and progression."

Still, his historical-material role is not one I am unfamiliar with. I think bonapartism is the best lens through which to understand Suvorov and his administration, and given his background and the manner in which he came to crown himself dictator he could certainly be considered a Russian Napoleon of sorts."

"His nationalist-papulist administration and crackdown on oligarchical elements in Russian society may entice some to believe him a friend of the proletarian cause, but we Marxists should not be so naive. In truth, his purpose is to strengthen Russian capital, whether he realises it or not. High Princess Reissechi Yuri
"Letter to Comrade San Horo and the Comrades in Sherechia"

QUOTE

"With the socalled "revolution" and "socialism" in Sherechia, we can have both victory and defeat and praise and condemnation, and thus we can know if it is truly "socialist" or a "revolution". The Sherechian Revolution was led by Inogo Estima and the people of Sherechia have all the valid reason to revolt against capitalism and imperialism for the freedom of labor.

While Inogo Estima and all of the people of Sherechia rose up in beating all of the bourgouisie in frenzied violence, it is important to know that they have the valid reason to struggle against the bourgouisie. But the lack of a dialectical line meant that it took an individualist and reactionary line where revenge against the bourgousie was taken equal to frenzied violence and physical punishment, culminating in the bourgouisie Hosan Lai being rammed by a shudak in the infamous Sherechian "killing fields". A more progressive line would have been to struggle against the bourgouisie through public criticism

The people of Sherechia and Inogo Estima have all the reason to imitate and learn from the experiences of socialist countries such as the Soviet Union, China and finally, Feyrisshire! There are lots of comrades in Sherechia who are learning not only the works of Marx, Lenin, Stalin and Mao Zedong, and also of Comrades High Princess Tulip

Pie Azure and Hana Aerifyu!, and also of Marxism-Leninism, Maoism and New High Princess Thought!

The people of Sherechia, under this enthusiastic patriotic valor took the ideas of "mass line", the "Hundred Flowers Campaign" and the "Cultural Revolution", but it suffered from a flaw of imitating the experiences of socialist countries mechanically without dialectically adjusting them to the material conditions of Sherechia. For example, the "Cultural Revolution" is misconstrued as simply killing all the bourgouisie rather than an all-out struggle against bourgouisie ways and practices.

Finally, the struggle is incomplete as capitalism has been restored in the country through "market socialism'. The bourgousie and the pettybourgouisie have been reestablished through the dominance of private enterprise in so-called "worker-owned cooperatives" that reifies the contradictions of capitalism. The Sherechian Revolution under Inogo Estima is an example of how a people's revolution can fail and defeat itself through lack of the correct line and a proletarian line and vanguard.

So who are you? Reissechi Yuri? That's a bit of a weird name, but maybe I think that because I'm not from Earth. So you are apparently the High-Princess and Chief Secretary of the Communist Party of Feyrisshire. Wait... hold on... a few things doesn't really add up to your nation's political system.. since when does a princess rule the nation instead of a gueen... oh well, lets see if there's more to this. So you studied computers. Not something I expected from a princess but oh well. You also joined "Maoist political indoctrination sessions." Oh no, that reminds me of when I was first introduced to Ultra-Galactica Thought, this is going to be bad. I don't know what Maoismis, but I hope that it will be less destructive then whatever Zevqir is believing in. I'm also reading that you rose up some ranks in the party because you took advantage of some purges? Wait? So this is how you became High Princess? What kind of monarchy is this?!

Ok so after you became the leader of the country you established an authoritarian totalitarian dictatorship that purges people because they didn't agree with you. Went full "anti-revisionism", whatever that means, and purged more people. So basically a reign of terror with lots and lots of purges. You really remind me of my friend Zevqir, the Supreme Leader of this place. You are both heavily indoctrinated when you were young and became a murderous leader who purges a lot. But at least Zev has the excuse of getting brain damage during a war. You are doing this because... I don't know, do you really think this is the best for your people, or is this just for power. I don't even know what this "Stalinism" is that you follow, but from what I read, it looks pretty similar to fundementalist Ultra-Galactica Thought.

Hello Jonny Goldstar. So you went into politics because some politician was shot and ran for... Big Cheese? Is there any historical reason why that is the ruler title or did the founders thought it was funny. Because ruler title is probably important in your world. I myself don't think its that important because a title is just a title, but other people may thing it is, but anyways what do we have more? So you won the election and completed 2 out of 5 terms. So you must be pretty popular with the people. Either that, or your campaign manager deserves a promotion. You also have three children who went to some elite high school. I also read here that you regularly open libraries and safe spaces. I don't really know what these 'safe spaces' are, but to me it sounds like your country is a very dangerous place, and only in the safe spaces are you safe, but maybe I'm just unfamiliar with human terminology. So my final judgement towards you is that you are a fine person, if a little bland. I want to say that your presidency... I mean Big Cheesency is a little boring, but maybe I'ma bit biased because l'ma insurgent leader which makes every other leadership job look boring.
