People tend to assume that Entrance of the Gladiators by Julius Fučík is what that ever so famous circus clown theme is. And in a way, it is. Nobody would ever argue with you on this fact.
However, if you want to be an unlikable, pedantic jerk, the song actually known to be circus music would be a version composed for American woodwind bands (and later transcribed for fairground organs) titled Thunder and Blazes, published by Louis-Philippe Laurendeau.
Of course, this information is of absolutely no consequence to anyone.

Monkey 5096 fell into a Sarlacc pit and should've had their own series, but a certain multinational company decided a movie trilogy that panders to online fanboys and also deserves to be retconned would be better.

Monkey 5087 was killed by monkey 5086

Monkey 5086 had a shifty lawyer who got him acquitted on the murder charge. He lived a quiet life incognito for several years but eventually the relatives of Monkey 5087 tracked him down. They tried to avenge Monkey 5087 but Monkey 5086 managed to fight them off. Ironically, he was charged with unlawful use of force and tried for monkeyslaughter. He was sentenced to three years in prison, where he was killed in his sleep by his cellmate for no discernible reason.

Monkey 5085 was sent into the stratosphere, where it was learned that he was immortal, he orbited slowly across the Earth until he went face-first into some space debris that hurled him towards the ground. He landed on the ground in a large city he had never seen before, he stood up and looked around. He saw a humanoid figure by a building, and so he walked up to it. As he walked up to it he realized that the figure was standing kind of weird, but no matter, thought the monkey, for he was immortal. The closer he got to the figure the worse smelling it was. Monkey 5085 stood right behind the figure now, and it turned, and what Monkey 5085 saw made him jump back and onto the ground in fear. It was a zombie! The zombie ran towards Monkey 5085 and got him before he could jump up. Monkey 5085 thought, 'but I'm immortal, right?' as he slowly turned into a zombie. Monkey 5085 became a zombie, but he was still thinking? As Monkey 5085 pondered if he was now an immortal zombie, a random teenage girl and her friends appeared. They saw Monkey 5085 and tried to shoot it, and they all hit it, but nothing happened since he was immortal. That was until the girl fired her gun with such 'mediocre' aim that it instantly hit Monkey 5085 and in the end not even his immortality could save him from a Mary Sue.
